*A SPECIAL THANKS ****
TO SHERRY CAWLEY

We would like to express a special thank you to Sherry Cawley for her work as editor of The Rice Planter. Sherry Cawley resigned as editor due to pressing personal commitments. Sherry Cawley had dutifully served us as President of Old St. Bartholomew Genealogical Chapter and then as Newsletter editor. We think a lot of Sherry and all the work she has done. We just want her to know how very much we appreciated her hard work. Sherry you are a success in what ever you do and we will miss you as editor but we know how dedicated you are to the Old St. Bartholomew Genealogical Chapter and your expertise is always needed and again appreciated. Thank you.

Nettles Family Information

According to one source the Nettles family was of Welch origin. The name originally had many spellings, such as Nettle, Nettl, and Nettels. On the coat of arms the shield is “Gold; a red shevron between three Nettle leaves in natural color.”

Above the shield and helmet is the crest which is described as: “A stag statant under a tree ppr”. A translation of the Crest description is “A stag standing under a tree in natural color.”

The motto recorded with the Nettles Coat of Arms is: “Nemo Me Impune Lacessit” – “No one Provokes Me with Impunity.”

Information compiled and arranged by Laura Powers Marbat and Sarah Powers Thielbar states that the Nettles family was English and settled in Ireland about 1620. As recorded in Burke’s General Armory John Nettles was granted land.

Other record stated that sometime before the “late war” it was found that a large sum of money was in the Bank of England for those of the Nettles name in America. Feverish efforts were made to find these descendants and genealogical lines were searched. About 70 families were found in Alabama and Mississippi, but the number in the Carolina, Florida and Tennessee is not known. So far as is known the money is still there.

It has been found in the Vestry Book of Petsworth Parish, Gloucester County, VA., that one John Nettles died in Virginia. This source of information provided the basis for what is generally accepted as the beginning of the Nettles family in South Carolina and other Southern states.

Though the Register Book has been lost, the Church Minutes in the Vestry Book show the following information:

Thomas Vicaris was rector of the Parish as early as 1677, dying before 1696. On Oct 13 1697 the vestry paid Mrs. Vicaris, widow of the Rev. Thomas Vicaris, 3,000 pounds in back pay.

Among their children, all minors, was a daughter named Mary, who married a Robert Nettles, who is shown in the Gloucester County records as a surveyor and County Commissioner. According to the church records the widow was listed as Mary Nettles (nee Mary Vicaris), daughter of minister Thomas Vicaris.

At Robert’s death Mary was left with seven children, four of whom were minors, who in 1728 were “bound out” as follows: Mary Nettles was bound to Conquest Wyatt and remained in Virginia. William Nettles, age 10, was bound to Edward Wyatt. He later moved to Fairfax County, VA., and later still to Fairfield County, S.C. He was the father of Zachariah and William Nettles Jr. of Fairfield and possibly another County in South Carolina. Solomon was bound to Rev. John Reade, Minister of Stratton Major Parish, VA. He is supposed to have come to Edgecombe County, N.C. in 1754. By this time he had reached maturity and, of course, was no longer bound; but he could have accompanied his benefactor to lend aid to the aged minister. George Nettles was bound to Samuel Coleman and came to the Pee Dee area, and Darlington County, SC. There were many descendants in that area whom later moved to Charleston County, SC.

(All the above information is taken from the Book "Genealogies of Nettles and Related Families" by Cassie Nicholes, Editor and Compiler published in 1980.) On the steering committee for the production of the book were W. Carl Nettles, E. Whilden Nettles, Jr and Mary Nettles Robinson. Valuable assistance was given by Jacqueline Wade Thames (Mrs. Douglas) Baker and many others. A copy of the book was found at the Sumter Genealogical Chapter of the South Carolina Genealogical Society.

ANNUAL WORKSHOP

June 9, 2007

Our Annual Workshop was a huge success. Bob Williams Welcomed our Guests.

Judy Ballard gave a presentation on Researching using the Census Records.

Larry Ulmer gave a great presentation on GPS.

Afternoon was spent doing Research at The Research Center

Larry and Judy were able to use wireless internet service courtesy of Wi Carolina Communications, 566 Aviation Way, Walterboro, SC.

The members were so impressed with the internet service that they called a meeting to vote on receiving this service at our Research Center. The cost of the internet service was only going to cost $24.95 a month with free installation. A meeting was called to order and Installing Wireless Internet Service thru WI Carolina Communications was unanimously approved. WE NOW HAVE WIRELESS INTERNET SERVICE AT THE RESEARCH CENTER.
