The Fraser Family has been very prominent in Walterboro having several well-known doctors, lawyers and rice planters. The line was established by John Frazer (died 1754) who came from Scotland and settled in South Carolina around 1700. John was an Indian trader who dealt mostly with the Yemassee around Beaufort. He established a good relationship and the Yemassee Indians became a buffer against the Spanish. He married Judith Warner (born 1694 died 1776) and they had a number of children. Some of the names associated with this family are Grimke, Peters, Webb, Anderson, Henderson, Ludlow, Dominick and Robertson.
